

edunite™ covers all the important education processes of a modern education organisation scalable from an individual school, school associations to education departments. From quality development through finances to learning objectives or the classical processes of report generation. edunite™ offers among other things the most up-to-date competency management. Its uniqueness lies in the comprehensive integration of all partners involved in education, from pupils, parents, teachers and commercial enterprises through to government departments for culture and education.

edunite™

Because now my child's educational progress is more transparent!

Because as a pupil I can now see and understand my progress!

Because it makes my teaching work more effective!

Because as entrepreneurs we support the young talent we need for the future!

Because as aheadteacher I can focus on the real issues!

Because as a school governor I can save money!

Because as an education minister I can base politics on facts!

To our common goal

With the release of edunite™ 3.2 ascaion offers by far the most modern education management solution.

The first secure education cloud covers all school matters from primary through to degree level. Entire countries, states, municipalities or private companies can centrally administer all the schools within their organisation using this backbone system without restricting the independence or characteristics of the individual school or curtailing its requirements.

With edunite™ it is possible to enable all education partners to collaborate seamlessly on the same system. Teachers, pupils and parents right through to culture and education ministries.

Mobile, secure and functional

Teachers, pupils and parents are provided with all necessary information, processes and means of communication in one place thanks to the highly secure edunite™ web solution. This concept enables continual active competency development in the direct context of daily school life. Individual support and also the involvement of all parties involved in a common goal results in transparent progress. This is mobile, secure and functional.

Management information:

Sustainable school development can only take place over time based on comparable information. Many unnecessary disputes and assumptions in the context of education can be avoided with competent procedures and the most important and pressing issues can be focused on based on facts. This promotes trust in the teaching staff and with the parents. Trust is an important quality in education.

Informed and integrated

With the products of our partner netSchool, the largest provider of electronic whiteboards, we visualise necessary information from edunite™ directly in classrooms, recreation areas or entrance halls. An alarm organisation for fire and emergency can also be easily integrated. All integrated from our one-stop
